Please Join Us for our November Educational Program

In a time when there is no shortage of people offering to speak about leadership, you'll find this workshop different...something you can sink your teeth into. Based on the book, LIFT, by 9gs President, Bob Vosburgh, the focus is on three major areas: Self, Team and Atmosphere. You will learn about the three necessary characteristics within each of those major areas, while being entertained with anecdotes, stories and videos of successful leaders.

CMGMA Members will have their practice take an on-line leadership survey that provides qualitative and quantitative feedback. Attendees leave with a mantra and critical benchmarks for organizational performance and productivity.

Our afternoon session will be a follow-on to Bob's morning Organizational Excellence workshop. This workshop, Organizational Evolution, is founded upon interactions with thousands of MGMA members and more than 1,000 one-on-one coaching sessions. The key areas of reflecting, observing and improving will be discussed with real life examples of how the process leads to increased organizational performance and productivity.

Bob has a Bachelors degree in Aerospace Engineering, from Iowa State University. He attended the University of Tennessee, where he finished a Masters as well as PhD coursework in Astronautical Engineering, in only ten months. He has used that education as a fighter pilot, a professor at the US Air Force Academy, and in the business world

Bob served in the corporate environment in positions ranging from sales, to strategy, to CEO. He's worked with the CIA, the White House, civilian and government sectors, groups in the medical arena, chambers of commerce.

After a dozen years in Corporate America, Bob started his own business and focused on his love for teaching and the opportunity to introduce organizations to models that increase performance and productivity. His organization evolved from basic leadership workshops and simple surveys to providing portal-based science.
